Table of Contents

Preface .................................................. xiii
Foreword .................................................. xvii
Note on Sources ......................................... xxi Part I — The Question of the Relationship Between the Juridical and the Church .......................... 1

Chapter I — The Classical Antijuridical Theories and the Catholic Response ............................ 3
1. Framing the problem .................................. 3
2. The classical antijuridical theories ................. 5 2.1. The antijuridical theories based on a spiritualist view of the Church ............ 6
      a) The opposition between the invisible and the visible Church ...... 8
      b) Denial of the ecclesial hierarchy .... 11
      c) Denial of the mediation or sacramentality of the visible Church with regard to the word, the sacraments and ecclesial discipline .................................. 12
      d) The presuppositions and basic implications of these positions ...... 16 1° An understanding of the Church rooted in spiritualism, individualism and dualism ................................. 16
2° The christological problem......... 17
3° The view of human nature and of what is just by nature .......... 18
e) The question of law in the Church in Protestantism, especially Lutheranism .. 20

2.2. The antijuridical theories that identify law with the law of the State .............. 26
   a) Canon law in the framework of the relationship between the spiritual power and the temporal power ....... 26
   b) Canon law from the perspective of juridical positivism .......... 30

3. The Catholic response to the classical antijuridical theories .................................. 34 3.1. The intertwining of doctrine, discipline, and life in the response of the Catholic Church ... 34 3.2. The apologetics of law in the sacred sciences . 39
       a) The understanding of the Church and of law in the Counter-Reformation .... 39
       b) “Public Ecclesiastical Law” ........... 41
       c) Subsequent developments up to the Second Vatican Council .......... 43

3.3. Final appraisal ....................... 45

Chapter II — The Situation Following the Second
Vatican Council.......................... 47

1. The new attitude towards canon law ............ 47
   1.1. Canon law at the time of the Second
        Vatican Council ..................... 47
   1.2. Canon law in the documents of the Second
        Vatican Council ..................... 51
   1.3. The situation following the Second Vatican Council ............................ 54

2. The key problems to be solved: the relationship of canon law with theology and with pastoral activity ... 59
   2.1. Preliminary considerations ............ 59
2.2. The dialectic between the juridical and the theological ........................................ 63
2.3. The dialectic between the juridical and the pastoral ............................................ 65
2.4. The origin of the problem and how it may be overcome ........................................ 66

3. The ongoing debate over the nature of canon law and of canonical science ............... 69
3.1. The “theological” trend ................................................................. 71
   a) The doctrine of Klaus Mörsdorf .............................................. 72
      1° Canon law as a theological reality ........................................ 72
      2° The intrinsic juridical dimension of the Word and of the Sacrament ........ 74
      3° The juridical method/natural law ........................................ 78
      4° Critical appraisal .............................................................. 79
   b) Eugenio Corecco’s doctrine ..................................................... 82
      1° The “theological” radicalization of Mörsdorf’s positions .............. 82
      2° Critical appraisal .............................................................. 87

3.2. The “pastoral” trend ................................................................. 89
   a) Preliminary remarks .............................................................. 89
   b) The doctrine of Peter Huizing ............................................... 91
      c) The doctrine of Ladislas Örsy .............................................. 93
   d) Critical appraisal .............................................................. 95

3.3. The “juridical” trend ............................................................... 96
   a) The doctrine of Pedro Lombardía and Javier Hervada; the two “conversions” of Lombardía .......................................................... 96
   b) From the notion of law as a system to the notion of what is just .......... 102

Part II — Towards a Fundamental Theory of Canon Law ............................................ 107

Chapter III — The Object of Canon Law: That Which Is Just in the Church .................. 109

1. The object of law: that which is just ............................................ 109
1.1. Preliminary considerations ........................................ 109
1.2. Description of the juridical reality from the viewpoint of relations of justice between human persons ................................. 112
1.3. The priority of the notion of the juridical as that which is just ................................. 117

2. The object of canon law: that which is just in the Church ........................................ 120
2.1. The truth concerning the juridical and the truth concerning the Church as presuppositions of this perspective ........................................ 120
   a) Preliminary considerations ........................................ 120
   b) The risk of positivist normativism ................................. 121
   c) The risk of theologism ........................................ 124
   d) Formulation of the relationship between the Church and the juridical as that which is just ........................................ 125 2.2. That which is just in the Church: an overview ........................................ 129
   a) That which is just in the Church from the viewpoint of communion .................. 132
      1° The relationship between justice and communion ........................................ 132
      2° The personal nature of communion ........................................ 134
      3° The juridical goods of communion ........................................ 136
      4° The subjects of communional juridical relations ........................................ 138
   b) That which is just in the Church from the viewpoint of sacramentality .................. 140
      1° Overall view ........................................ 140
      2° The salus animarum as the finality of the juridical in the Church, and its consequent intrinsically pastoral nature ........................................ 143
      3° The subjects and objects of relations of ecclesial justice from the sacramental perspective ........................................ 146
Table of Contents

3. Justice and charity in the Church; canonical equity
   3.1. The need for a distinction between justice and charity in the Church  149
   3.2. The intertwining of justice and charity in the Church; canonical equity  154
   3.3. The special importance of love in the Church  155

4. Canon law and secular law from the point of view of that which is just 4.1. The autonomy and specificity of that which is just in the Church  157
   4.2. Canon law, a law in an analogous or univocal sense?  158
   4.3. The importance of an adequate conception of secular law  162

Chapter IV — Static Vision of What Is Just in the Church
1. Introduction: person and communion in ecclesial justice  166
2. The subjects of juridical canonical relations  170
   2.1. The human person  170
      a) The juridical situation of those not baptized in the Church  170
      b) The membership of the person in the Church through baptism: the effects of baptism and visible communion  174
      c) The juridical situation of those baptized in the Church  178
      d) Juridical-ecclesial equality and diversity among the baptized  182
         1° General considerations  182
         2° Diversity based on the sacrament of holy orders  183
         3° Diversity based on the public and official witness of the radically Christian way of life  185
2.2. The hierarchy of the Church

a) The juridical dimension of the ecclesial hierarchy in light of the realistic conception of what is just, and of the mystery of the Church ........................ 188

b) The juridical dimension of the relationship between the hierarchy and all the faithful .................. 194

c) The structural configuration of the hierarchy by means of the sacrament of ordination and the canonical mission .......................... 197

d) Personal and institutional aspects of the hierarchy .................. 200

2.3. The ecclesial juridical subjects transcending individual persons ................................. 203

a) Preliminary remarks .......................... 203

b) Transpersonal subjects participating in the institutionality of the Church as such .................. 205

c) Transpersonal subjects established by the faithful themselves .................. 209

3. The objects of juridical-canonical relations .......... 212

3.1. The objective specificity of what is just in the Church: the juridical dimension of communion .......................... 212

3.2. The juridical goods of ecclesial communion ... 216

a) Overall view .......................... 216

b) The word of God as a juridical good ... 222

c) The sacraments as juridical goods ..... 227

1° The sacraments as res iustæ of persons in respect of the minister .......................... 228

2° Other aspects of the juridical dimension of the sacraments .......................... 232

d) Freedom in the Church as a juridical good .......................... 235

e) Hierarchical power (potestas) as a juridical good, with particular reference to ecclesial discipline .......................... 238
Errázuriz
Table of Contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>f) Charism, an ecclesial juridical good?</td>
<td>244</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>g) The natural juridical goods in the Church</td>
<td>248</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chapter V — Dynamic View of What Is Just in the Church</td>
<td>253</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. The relationship between what is just in the Church and the juridical-canonical system</td>
<td>254</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. The divine-human configuration of what is just in the Church</td>
<td>258</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.1. Divine law (positive and natural) and human law: the perspective of what is just</td>
<td>258</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.2. General rule and individual case in the divine and the human in ecclesial justice</td>
<td>261</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>a) General considerations</td>
<td>261</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>b) The function of general rules in the canonical tradition</td>
<td>263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>c) The function of individual cases in the canonical tradition</td>
<td>265</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.3. The relationship between the divine and the human in ecclesial justice</td>
<td>268</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. The achievement of what is just in the Church</td>
<td>270</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.1. The spontaneous and peaceable achievement of what is just</td>
<td>270</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.2. The need authoritatively to declare what is just: the function of the canonical process</td>
<td>272</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>a) The nature and function of the process in the Church</td>
<td>272</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>b) Observations on the principal canonical processes</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.3. The need to safeguard what is just in the Church: the function of ecclesial juridical sanctions</td>
<td>279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>a) Ecclesiastical sanctions in general</td>
<td>279</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>b) The nature of canonical penalties</td>
<td>280</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.4. The moral and the juridical dimension in the achievement of intraecclesial justice: the distinction between internal and external forum</td>
<td>284</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
4. The knowledge of what is just in the Church ........ 291 4.1. Juridical-canonical knowledge from the point of view of intraecclesial justice ........ 291
        a) General considerations ....................... 291
        b) Norm and justice in juridical-canonical knowledge; obedience and reception of ecclesiastical laws ............................ 293
        c) What is just in the Church as object of different types of knowledge, whether scientific or prudential, properly juridical or of other natures; indisciplinarity in this field .................................. 299
  4.2. Faith and reason in canonical knowledge .... 302
        a) The antithesis between faith and reason in the canonical sphere ....................... 302
        b) Overcoming the antithesis on the basis of juridical realism .......................... 306 4.3. The various types of juridical-canonical knowledge ........................................ 310
        a) The knowledge present in juridical practice; juridical prudence ............... 310
        b) Juridical-canonical science ................. 314
            1° Its object .................................. 314
            2° The problem of the interpretation of the juridical in the Church ........... 315
            3° The juridical-canonical method .......... 318
        c) Ontological or fundamental knowledge of canon law: theology or fundamental theory of canon law? ......................... 320

Bibliographical Note ................................. 325
Index of Names ........................................ 327
Analytical Index ...................................... 331